SYNOPSIS

- I am Full Professor at the Department of Anthropology, Yarmouk University. Areas of interests are: Social Change and displacement, Development and International Corporations, Field Techniques, Ethnography of the Middle East, Economic Anthropology and Ethno-archaeology. I worked as consultant with the WB, IFAD, FAO, UNDP, USAID, and as visiting researcher at the Center for Strategic Studies/Jordan University, in addition to many national and international agencies.
- I worked as the National Program Manager at the International Labour Organization- International Program on the Elimination of Child Labour (IPEC). (2004-2005).
- Recently I worked as General Director of the Hashemite Fund for the development of Jordan Badia (Sept. 2011 – Sept. 2013).
- Member of many national and International corporate and agencies such as the Trustee Board of the National Council for Family Affairs, 2011-2015.

SELECTED PROJECT ASSESSMENTS

I have been involved in a wide range of projects in the areas of social change, globalization, social economy, development studies and sustainable development. Key projects include (as consultant):

Social Assessment Report for the Proposed “Jordan Agriculture Export Development Project”, (1999/2000). The assessment looked at original design of the proposed Agriculture Export Project, which aims to provide credits for eligible farmers to introduce high technology to produce products with international standards and its impact on farmers.

Assessing Pasture Overgrazing in South of Jordan (1998). The project was handled to FAO: Production System Division. It was found that tribal politics and local ideologies are the main pushing factors for degradation of arable lands. The state policies represented by the Department of Land and Survey participate in this negative process. Pasture areas in the south should be treated with new mandate other than the existing one.

Rapid Social Assessment in respect of land acquisition for Es-Samra Power Project in Zarka for the Ministry of power World Bank funded project, (٢٠٠٠). A rapid and constrained social assessment was carried out for the proposed site of the project. Part of this assessment, was the development of a process for land acquisition and the proposed compensation rates.

Assessment of Economic Foreign Aids in Urban Areas in Jordan (٢٠٠٠). Socio-economic assessment took place in specific areas in Irbid and Amman where certain foreign NGOs implementing development projects to eradicate child labor. On the contrary, it was found that these projects are increasing and enhancing the phenomenon of child labor.

Social Mapping of Poverty in Jordan (٢٠٠٢). About ٢٠ variables and indicators of poverty were reviewed in a new approach called “geographic patterning of social indicators” using Geographic Information System (GIS). The project was delivered to the Center for Strategic Studies in Amman.

Child Labour in Cities: the Case of Jordan (١٩٩٧-٢٠٠٢). A wide range of focal field researches was conducted in three main cities of Jordan (Amman, Irbid and Zarqa) and in rural areas (Middle and South Ghor and Mafraq). It was found that there are specific zones where children live and work and they have unique sub-culture and specific socio-economic conditions. The project was delivered to the Center for Strategic Studies in Amman.

The Development of Wadi Araba (٢٠٠٢). The main concern was how to adapt participatory development approach in order to break the socio-economic isolation of local communities in the Wadi. The project was commissioned to the Higher Council for Science and Technology.

Social expert for the “Reuse of Treated Waste Water in Wadi Musa Project (٢٠٠٣). The main task was to conduct socio-economic survey for local communities to evaluate the major stakeholders and beneficiaries for the use of water and land.

Participatory Development Approach: Local Communities and Pastureland Rehabilitation” (٢٠٠٣-٢٠٠٤) Commissioned with the Badia Research and Development Program. The idea is to rehabilitate natural resources and protecting it in the future through local communities and not by foreign bodies.
